OUR FAMILY OF COMPANIES

JULY SPOTLIGHT ORGANIZATION

THE KATONAH MUSEUM OF ART (KMA), a 10,000 square foot building designed by the influential modernist architect Edward Larrabee Barnes, is a must-visit destination for anyone seeking an experience with art that is emotionally-fulfilling and engaging. Celebrating its 25th anniversary of officially becoming a museum and founded more than 60 years ago, the Katonah Museum of Art serves as a “dynamic generator of timely and original content that explores the hidden chapters, pivotal moments, and groundbreaking artistic practices that inspire our cultural communities today,” according to the Museum’s executive director, Darsie Alexander.

“The intimate scale and quality of the KMA fosters a very different experience than visitors would get at a large city museum,” she added. “We aim to take advantage of that intimacy to foster close and memorable experiences with the artworks that surround us.”

The Museum offers ever-changing art exhibitions from across the spectrum of cultures and time periods, and is located at the northern end of Katonah’s “Museum Mile”

just off of Route 22.

The Museum mounts multiple exhibitions per year in its main galleries, Sculpture Garden and in the Learning Center, a space where families explore hands-on art activities. For adults, the KMA offers stimulating lectures, workshops, trips, and social events. The Museum also offers many programs for children and families, including Stroller Tours, Family Days, School’s Out/Arts In vacation day programs, and art classes for children ages three through twelve. The Museum’s innovative Arte Juntos/Art Together program for underserved new immigrant families has been recognized as a model program by the federal government.

The KMA’s current exhibition, Inside the Outside: Five Self-Taught Artists from The William Louis-Dreyfus Foundation (July 19 – October 11), brings together highlights from the extraordinary collection of William Louis-Dreyfus and features a focused look at five artists — James Castle, Thornton Dial, Nellie Mae Rowe, Bill Traylor, and Willie Young — who started creating their work late in life and then, driven by an inexorable urge to respond to personal visions and aspects of their daily lives. With more than sixty works on view, this exhibition showcases some of the finest examples of self-taught art in any private collection.

In addition the Emilie Clark: The Delicacy of Decomposition exhibition (July 12 – September 6) features the artist Emilie Clark’s use of her family’s preserved food waste to create installations that retain the quality of old-world still life paintings. Emilie Clark’s installation is part of a larger collaboration with the Fairfield/Westchester Museum Alliance’s series of exhibitions on The Seven Deadly Sins which is presented at seven art institutions in the area.

Clark’s work can be seen through the lens of the sin of Gluttony, a term expressing excessive self-indulgence as well as over-consumption.

More than 350 art lovers and collectors, business and community leaders, and area residents enjoyed hors d'oeuvres and cocktails in the Katonah Museum of Art's sculpture garden, followed by a four-course dinner and dancing, at the KMA's annual spring benefit. A very lively “paddle raise” raised close to $100,000 in less than 10 minutes, and guests danced the night away during the After Party at a Silent Disco in the Sculpture Garden. The event celebrated achievements — past and future — on the 25th anniversary of the Museum’s iconic Edward Larrabee Barnes building.

The Museum honored Katonah resident and two-time Emmy award-winning documentary producer and founder of Makers, Dyllan McGee. McGee, who was introduced at the event by Martha Stewart, has been a friend and supporter of the Museum for years. Even her children have taken an interest in the museum, and are involved in many art education programs.

The event was co-chaired by Francesca Miller and Casey Carter. Honorary co-chairs included Mary Lou Beitzel, Judy Evnin, Ginny Gold and Linda Nordberg.

Corporate sponsorship was provided by AOL, Diageo, Glenmede, Houlihan Lawrence, Mackin Architects, DPD Builders, Makers, and Pepsi Cola of the Hudson Valley. Cuisine by Abigail Kirsch Catering Relationships.

WHY GIVE?

“This is a very exciting time for the Katonah Museum of Art! Under Darsie’s leadership, the Museum has entered a new phase of providing forward-thinking exhibitions — while deepening its connection to the community, furthering collaborations with regional institutions, and maintaining its strong commitment to education. I’m thrilled to be involved with the Museum at this transitional time.”

Pound Ridge Resident

NONPROFIT WESTCHESTER

914 Nonprofits Vote!

As we delve into the summer, Nonprofit Westchester has embarked on a new voter registration drive that will encourage all Westchester nonprofit employees and the people they serve to register to vote, become educated about the candidates, and then vote in the November elections.

We want to make sure that everyone in the nonprofit sector is engaged and exercising one of their most important and fundamental rights.

Our drive will include targeting nonprofit staff and clients, encouraging our member organizations to run voter registration drives in their organizations, as well as dispelling myths around voter registration, which include voting only counts for presidential campaigns, someone can find out who you voted for during elections or you can’t vote if you’ve ever been arrested.

We also want to show that we, as nonprofits and an integral part of our economy, are an important voting block that needs to be considered.

Voter registration is a first step toward increased voter and civic engagement in our community. Every voter has the potential to impact the outcome of an election. But equally important, more voters mean more power to influence decision makers on causes you care about as a nonprofit employee.

Our drive called 914 Nonprofits Vote will officially kick off in September but we are building the momentum now. Join us for our drive by using #914NonprofitsVote on your social media platforms.

Our mission is to strengthen the capacity, impact and visibility of the nonprofit sector in Westchester County for a more just and caring community. To find out more or to become a member, visit www.npwestchester.org.
